CLEVELAND AND HENDRICKS.

Their Model Letters of Acceptance. ALBANY, N. Y., August 19 .- Governor Cleveland's letter, formally accepting the democratic nomination for President of the l'nited States, is as follows:

GENTLEMEN: -I have received your communication dated July 28, 1881, informing me of my nomination to the office of l'resident of the United States by the national democratic curvention lately assembled at Chicago. I accept the nomination with a grateful appreciation of the aupreme honor conferred and a solemn sense of the responsibility which, in its acceptance, I assume.

I bave carefully considered the platform adopted by the convention and confially approve the came. So plain a statement of democratic faith and the principles upon which that party appeals to the suffrages of the people needs no supplement or explana-

In a free country the curtailment of the absolute rights of the Individual should only be such as is essential to the peace and good order of the community. The limit between the proper subjects of govermental control and those which can be more fittingly left to the moral sense and self-imposed restraint of the citizen should be kept carefully in view. Thus laws unnecessarily interfering with the habits and customs of any of our people which are not offensive to the moral aentiments of the civilized world, and which are consistent with good citizenship and the public welfare, are unw'ee and vexatious.

COMMERCE SHOULD BE FOSTERED.

The commerce of a nation, to a great extent, determines its supremacy. Chesp and easy transportation should therefore be lib erally fostered. Within the limits of the Constitution the General Government should so improve and protect its natural water ways as will enable the producer of the country to reach a profitable market.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

"Inmanapolis, Aug. 20, 1884.-Gentlemen: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication notifying me of my nomination by the democratic convention at Chicago as a candidate for the office of Vice-President of the United States. May I repeat what I said on ar- 20 Open Dens Wild Beasts 20 other occasion, that 'it is a nomination which I had neither expected nor desired, and yet I recognize and appreciate the high honor done me by the convention.' The nausi unanimity and accompanied with so fidence, ought to outweigh all merely personal desires and preferences of my own. It is with this feeling, and I trust also from a deep sense of public duty, that I now accept the nomination and shall abide the judgment of my countrymen. I have examined with care the declaration of principles adopted by the convention, a copy of which von submitted to me, and in their sum and substance I heartily endorse and approve the same. I am, gentlemen, your T. A. HENDRICKS.

The plan of using the enormous water power of the Alps for working electric railways in S vitzerland is about to take a defiplie shape, the idea being to connect the towns of St. Muritz and Pontresina by an electric railway tour and three-quarters miles long, the motive power to be supplied by the mountain streams; the line, in case the plan proves a success, to be extended a considerable distance.

The Tail or the Ticket Whisks Around Verbatim reports of Gen. John Alexander Logan's speeches are printed in the newspapers of the towns in central and western New York. We get thus a new and vivid conception of the eloquence of this extraordinary person, of whom the Hon. Ellis H. Roberts recently remarked: which electrify men and sweep away the gaudy rhetoric of dilettanti orators."

The republican candidate-for Vice-President started it in Watertown, where he had an audlence of veteran soldiers. After ansuring his hearers that "history does not record in any past time echievements su grand as were those of the loyal men who bore the banner of our country," Gen Logan went on ln this strain:

"One of the grandest scenes was, when peace was declared, when the war ceased. when the thunder of artillery were no longer neard, the melting away of the army in the naths of peace. In a short time, like one smooth, unbroken current, there was not a ripple or disturbance from it in our whole country. My fellow comradee, a grand development has followed the disbanding of our armies. A grand development sprang up in this land that gives us a prosperity that no other people erjoy. We have one of the grandest republics ever known."

In Utica Gen. Logan constructed and exhibited this masterpiece of rhetoric:

"In viewing this grand and beautiful city, having a knowledge of its prosperlty and advancement, of its being one of the older settlements in this portion of the country, organized in 1832, your own growth from that to the present time, its streets beautiful, endowed by nature with all that is necessary to make the surroundings pleasant, with your schools and institutions of learning, with your manufacturing establishments, with your trade and business, with that great prosperity that you enjoy, there is nothing that could be more gratifying to those who come to vialt you than that which they see, know and understand in reference to this people.

On the same day in Syracuse, he showed that his appreciation of grandeur was hy no means exhausted:

"It is indeed gratifying for me to meet so many citizens of your grand city here to-day. I have been for several days passing through your State. There is nothing 82 well calculated to fill one with admiration for this, our country, as to pass through it and see it in all its prosperity and beauty. Yours is a grand State. It is a State that always-always, in times when your country has been in danger-has come to make them greater than the people of in doing the whole duty you owe your country you be never forgetful of that duty you owe to yourselves."

At Chautauqua there was no grand city to impress the orator, but the assembly etruck him as Indescribably grand:

"The fame of your great institution has become world-wide. It has sent out to the American people its rills of influence and knowledge until its aggregate resembles a mighty flood, blessing all portions of the country. Here, now, on this beautiful spot of ground, near the lovely lake of Chautauqua, amid the tall elms and wide-spreading beeches, we find the seembled thousands meeting to enjoy a great moral and intellectual feast, the influences of which camlfy every portion of this republic Here you have lectures on the arm, the sciences, literature, philosophy and religion eending out their influence like the little children rivulets that flow out from here to form the rounds this great people, the great benefits, Logan. cast upon future generations as well. Then Into this matter."-[New York Graphic, can each of us say, I am proud to live beneath the starry banner which was unfurled by our forefathers and so heroically defended when attacked by the destroyer of the nation."

Now let us follow the electric orator to Buffalo, where he delivered one of his most remarkable speeches: "This grand demonstration is of a character which might be deemed as a compliment to any one should it be tendered personally. While your city, like my own, aits enthroned, queen-like upon a beautiful iake, it also stands in history with a name United States might well be proud. Gen. Cassius M. Clay. A ferocious letter to the editor, from Ger. Cassins M. Clay, of Kentucky, appears in the New York Sun. An original Abolitionist of the red-hand John Brown type he went over to the democrate after the war and bitterly opposed the reconstituction measures. The bloody riots and Kuklux outrages of the reconstruction period he charged to Federal interference and the republican party. But now at the age of 74 he discovers in the Danville and Copiah affairs a reason for believing that he was wrong, and that Elsine and Logan should be elected to begin over again the abandoned experiment of Federal interference, with force bills and military raids for the protection of the hallot-box from bulldozers and violence. Now he holds the solid South responsible for Danville and Copish, and fiercely assailing the doctrine that such occurrences cannot be prevented by Federal action, he aska:

Has all my work been in vaic? Have I lost a large estate? Has my family been broken up? Has more than one of my of my children been poisoued to death, and and the youngest left alive by a miracle only? Have I been robbed of my proverty in many ways, by open violence and fired the well known sectisticism of San Fran-Have I been stabbed and shot by mobs? ciaco, who I thill her a v. lane annually of Have I suffered fierce slander? Only a few years ago he shot a negro dead and was acquitted on his own testimony as the only witness of the affair. His remarkable faculty for getting feet, the water having no mineral qualities into deadly affrays, and finding opportunities for killing people in self defense, is now illustrated in his audden turning against his political associates of the last fourteen years, and charging upon them and the "solid South" all his personal sorrows, his losses of property by fire, or otherwise, his domestic troubles, the dissen-
